Dear Mr. Weinstein:

Thank you for your letter of March 11 regarding price increases for antiretroviral medications (ARVs).

We appreciate your concerns about funding for ARVs. Pfizer continues to work actively to increase available funding for ARVs both through direct advocacy and by working closely with the HIV community.

We also recognize the vital importance of helping patients get access to affordable medicines. Pfizer continues to provide medications for free or at savings to patients without coverage, regardless of age or income, through the Pfizer Helpful Answers® patient assistance program. Individuals seeking assistance may contact Pfizer Helpful Answers at 1-866-706-2400 or at www.PfizerHelpfulAnswers.com.

Prior to this year, the last time Pfizer increased the price of Viracept® (nelfinavir mesylate) was January 2002. There have been no increases in the price of Selzentry™ tablets (maraviroc) since the product was launched in 2007.

We value input from all stakeholders and will give thoughtful consideration to your comments regarding ARV pricing. Thank you for sharing your concerns.

Sincerely,
